

The diagram shows a rectangular print layout with three main horizontal zones. The top zone is defined by two vertical green lines (fold lines) and a horizontal red line (cut line). The middle zone is between the red line and a horizontal blue line (safety line). The bottom zone is below the blue line. Arrows point from the text labels to their respective lines: two arrows point to the red line from above, one arrow points to the blue line from the left, and two arrows point to the green lines from below.
